

Christer Løvold - piano, keyboards

Christer Løvold was born in Oslo in 1973. Being the son of a musician and composer, his early affinity for classical music may not surprise. His career as a musician started in 1992, when he decided to go to the Norwegian college of music in Oslo. In 1996, after graduating in church music with success, he went to the Basel College of Music in order to study organ and thereby perfect his education with the soloist's diploma for organ in 2000.

Since then, Christer Løvold has toured through the whole of Europe, the USA, Africa and Asia as a soloist and also as an experienced accompanist in demand (organ, piano, harpsichord). He has played with the following musicians: Niklas Eklund, Reza Aghamir, Guy Bovet, and Edin Karamazov. Being versatile, he is also interested in contemporary music.

With a classical background, Christer Løvold can easily deal with several different music styles, such as jazz, pop, musical, gospel song, etc. Furthermore, he has been able to distinguish himself as an interpreter as well as a composer of numerous commissioned pieces.
